Largest Orders Ever Made by a Retail House in Paducah.

Three Hundred Dinner Sets in Transit to Fill a Great Demand.

When Paducah's new china store, The Arcade, opened up just three months ago, its success was questioned, fearing that they had introduced into our town a finer line of china and glassware than the trade of this city demanded. But a reporter strolling through this elegant store found their stock was just that which was needed, for it was plainly visible the finer goods had been sought after judging from the broken stock shown. True, they have the cheap goods, but this stock was complete and in getting the prices on different lines the reporter found that the good goods were selling only a fraction higher than the cheap lines which the city has had thrust upon them.

In going through their warehouse it was found that their stock was being replenished and new things added which will delight the housekeeper, and inside of a month their Christmas stock will be arriving, several importation orders being now on the road.

In talking with Mr. Lane the reporter was surprised to learn that he had placed with three different large factories, orders amounting to over three hundred dinner sets, to be shipped out in the next month. These sets are to be given away at a cost of only 25 cents, the plan having already been explained in nearly every home throughout the city and country.

We congratulate this new store on its wonderful success in the first three months of its business career.

The Arcade shipped fifty dinner sets this week to different parts of the state. Fifty more will arrive Monday and one hundred the following week.

Insurgents Attempt to Take Three Towns Held by Americans.

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 9.—The insurgents in the north spring a surprise this morning by making simultaneous attacks on Santa Rita, Cuingua and San Antonio, all of which places are held by Americans. England and the Transvaal May Yet Kiss and Make Up.

JOHANNESBURG, Transvaal, Sept. 9.—The Volksraad has resolved not to send Boer riflemen to officially guard the frontier. The Boers were already engaged in the work but they went without orders. Calmer feeling prevails. The opinion is growing that a clash of arms will be avoided.

ALMOST CHOKED.

Charlie, the 6-year-old son of Mr. George Griggs, engineer at Kilgore's came near choking to death yesterday afternoon. He was found playing with some boys and was speechless. Dr. Coyle was summoned, and after a time succeeded in dislodging a large chunk of watermelon which had stuck in his throat. The boy is now out of danger but had a narrow escape.

"HE IS GUILTY!"

This Was the False Finding of the Dreyfus Court-Martial Returned Today.

5 AGAINST 2 FOR ACCUSED

Punishment Fixed at Ten Years in Fortress Clearly a Weakened Verdict.

LATEST FROM SCENE OF TRIAL

The curtain on France's latest farce has again been rung down; the second Dreyfus court-martial is over. The finding of the court—guilty and a sentence of ten years in a fortress—is clearly a travesty on justice and only intended as a vindication to the unfortunate man's accusers. Either the accused should on first trial have been stood and shot, the crime being so grievous as that, or released because of the great doubt of his guilt. The second trial for lack of any evidence at all should have brought Dreyfus freedom, with attempted reparation for a great wrong done him, and arrest and punishment to the real offenders against the country's honor and dignity—Dreyfus' accusers to be found in the "generals" gang, which has done and is doing so much to bring reproach upon France's name. The finger of the christian world is today pointed in derision toward France and the finale to the Dreyfus farce—the conviction of the innocent and the escape from punishment of the guilty.

RENNES, France, Sept. 9.—The Dreyfus court-martial adjourned until 3 this afternoon. It is generally supposed a verdict will be announced at that hour. The entire session was devoted to the closing of the argument by Demange. Extraordinary precautions have been taken to prevent any disorder. Bodies of troops ofgendarmes were early sent to the town and the town echoed with the tramp of marching men. The public was excluded from a space nearly a quarter mile from the Lycee. In each street approaching the court three barriers of troops of soldiers formed a cordon around the court house and were massed in the plaza in center of the town. In front of the post-office were a hundred mountedgendarmes ready to gallop to any point where trouble was threatened. Demange entered upon a searching analysis of the evidence and recapitulated the testimony of the expert artists in Dreyfus' favor. He took up the horrendous by sections and exonerated Esterhazy in a scathing arraignment. Demange dropped into a pathetic manner today and presented a forcible argument. When Demange had finished with a magnificent peroration his eyes were suffused with tears and his lips from violence of efforts actually covered with foam there was a moment of silence and then a sharp crackle of hand claps, but no cheering no attempt at demonstration. Labor then announced he would not speak. Dreyfus throughout the speech preserved his calm demeanor. At 3:10 p. m. the court adjourned to consider verdict.

RENNES, France, Sept. 9.—It took the court but a little while to reach a decision and a verdict. The time so occupied was so brief that the conclusion is sustained that the verdict was previously decided upon. The decision and verdict was one of "guilty." Five of the judges voted for conviction and two against. During the reading of the finding, which was guilty and for a ten years imprisonment in a fortress absolute silence prevailed in the court room. The end of the trial hardly seemed comprehended and something else was looked for.

The defense has already begun preparing points on which to base an appeal to the high military court in Paris. The appeal must be heard within 24 hours after the decision of the court-martial. If not allowed, the degradation of Dreyfus will follow, as the government is reported to be unwilling to again appeal to the court of cassation.

Dreyfus was not present in the court room when the verdict was read. He was in waiting in an ante-room adjoining, whither Colonel Jouast proceeded and read him the court's fatal decision. Only the members of the court and his counsel were present when the verdict was read to Dreyfus.

ANOTHER ASPIRANT.

Monday the Sun will, by authority, announce Mr. Ed C. Lucas as a candidate for representative from McCracken county. Mr. Lucas takes the track at the earnest solicitation of many friends, though he had said he would best young men and is capable in all out of the contest.

Mr. Lucas is one of the county's respects to fill the office he seeks. He will enter the contest with a good following and if nominated will leave no stone unturned to lead his party banner to victory. His candidacy, of course, is subject to the action of the Republican party.

A GOOD SPEECH.

Was the One Made Here by Mr. W. C. Owens Last Evening.

A crowd of several hundred gentlemen heard the speech delivered here last evening by Mr. W. C. Owens. Owing to the inclement weather the speaking occurred at the city hall and not Yenger's Park and the crowd was reduced because of the weather and change of place. But a good speech was heard by those present and the speaker was fully satisfied with the people and his work. The Sun cares only to say that Mr. Owens is a fine talker, perhaps the most entertaining one heard yet in the canvass, and all he said last night was said soundly, logically, with great calmness and effect, and that those who heard him were very favorably impressed with his candor and precision. He left little for the Goebels to hang hope and satisfied all with the wisdom of their conclusion in deciding not to vote for the Louisville ticket. Mr. Owens should be swung around the circle by the Brownites, for he is unquestionably about their best talker. His speech has been largely discussed today.

DIED AMONG STRANGERS.

Alexander Fabre Passes Away at Noble's Restaurant.

Alexander A. Fabre is the name of a man about 45 years of age, who died yesterday afternoon at about 6 o'clock at George Noble restaurant on Second street. He came here about a month ago, and had been employed about the restaurant. He became ill about two weeks ago, but not seriously.

Justice Emery held an inquest this morning. He examined the man's effects, and found about two dollars in money, and some clothing. His value contained Tom Paine's "Age of Reason," a family Bible and other things, all of which seemed to be kept with scrupulous cleanliness.

It was learned from one letter that he had been living at 215 Commercial avenue, Cairo, Ill., and that he has a cousin, Frank Fabre, of Mobile, Ala., in whose letter was enclosed a pass over the Mobile and Ohio from Cairo to Mobile, dated May 24. Beyond this nothing is known of the man.

Justice Emery also found a letter showing that Fabre had been employed by Sibra Brothers, candy makers, at Cairo, and there was a ticket from Dawson to Cairo in his grip. He had been to Dawson, it seems, and he is known as Italian, and the inquest is postponed until some of his friends or relatives are heard from. Justice Emery wired to both Cairo and Mobile for advice.

ACCIDENTALLY DROWNED.

Fate of a Boy Who Went Swimming in a Gravel Pit.

Bonner Hackett, colored, aged 12 years, was drowned in Guthrie's pit yesterday afternoon while swimming. If any one was with him at the time, Justice Emery, who held the inquest, could not find him. Some one told the boy's father that he was drowned, and while the latter was in the city for an undertaker, some one fished the boy out with a hook. The verdict of the jury was accidental death by drowning, and the remains were this morning buried from the family residence near Thirteenth and Tumb streets.

YELLOW FEVER.

Thirteen Cases Found in Mississippi City.

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 9.—Dr. Murray, of the Marine hospital service, arrived here this morning. He reports thirteen cases of yellow fever at Mississippi City, of variety so mild that for several days it was impossible to correctly diagnose it. Only one is a typical case. Eleven cases are now convalescent.

JACK BOLAN WON.

Jack Bolan won the twenty round contest with Jack Brodie at Fulton last night in the fifth round on a foul.

The fighting was spirited, but it was evident that Brodie is no match in cleverness for his adversary, and he fouled him and lost. Here when they fought Brodie pretended that he had a dislocated arm, and the fight was given to Bolan. They will fight again about the fifteenth at Memphis. Wood Jones and Ernest Oment, of the city, fought a preliminary, which was called a draw in the fourth.

It was reported that Bolan was knocked down, but this is contradicted, and it is said that he only fell to escape being struck. It is one of his favorite and most successful tactics.

Betting was lively and there was a large crowd. One man jumped up with a gun and got a little disorderly, but was promptly squelched.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 9, 1899.

The Goebel editor who abused a Baptist minister for expressing himself as against "the king" for governor awoke a hornet's nest of opposition. The ministers generally are resenting the insulting attack to the cloth in a most decisive way.

If Mr. Goebel is such a strong friend of the laboring man, why is it that he, in the capacity of a legislator, voted in the senate, against the law that was intended to protect laboring men and save them from rascally employers? The fact is Mr. Goebel is a demagogue for himself at the sacrifice of everything which is not for Goebel.

Around on "legal row" most any one can tell you how many votes that gubernatorial candidate is going to receive in the district, yet you can't find a man on the square that can tell you how the city is going to vote in the contest. Solomon was not as wise as some of the people on "legal row," but Solomon was not a politician, you know.

Caleb Powers, of Knox county, the young nominee for secretary of state on the Republican ticket, has come forward as a hard worker of a degree to command the admiration of the state executive committee. Powers has cut out six weeks of hard work for himself and the Hon. Jackson Morris. Together they will stump southeastern Kentucky making 48 different points.

Goebel is the kind of a fellow that passes a law to regulate a corporation and then takes a plea from the corporation to fight his own law and down it in the court of appeals. He's the kind of a fellow that goes to the senate and ostensibly legislates against banks and then as an attorney for the banks goes before the highest courts to pick his own enactment to pieces.

"I shall vote it straight this time," says an occasional ex-blogger, who thinks he is in line for the November contest just because he has made up his mind to support Goebel and his gang. The fact is, the only crooked ticket in the contest this time is the Louisville one, and the man who votes it will be voting the crookedest ticket he ever voted in his life without doubt. The man who wants a straight ticket will have to take any other but the Louisville manufactured one.

It is sent out from some of the mountain counties that already the Democrats are preparing to flood the section with illegal voters. A similar report comes from Louisville and other sections will doubtless soon send out like information. Is this the way the Goebels promise to win the election, which they are so emphatically saying they will carry? If it is they are reckoning without much wisdom, for the people are going to see to it that the November election is a fair one, and it will be that and nothing else.

Has Goebel whipped Judge Tarvin into the traces? It would seem so. Says a Frankfort telegram: "Judge James P. Tarvin, of Covington, Ky., widely published as Bryan's probable running mate in 1900, wrote the Democratic state campaign committee today offering to make speeches for Goebel. He will make his first speech here next Monday. There have been grave doubts whether Tarvin would support Goebel. In a recent letter to the state campaign committee he vigorously attacked some of Goebel's leaders, who are supporting Goebel, but repudiating Bryan and the Chicago platform. Judge Tarvin is now in New York, and his letter is written from there."

Captain B. B. Davis, who, as architect of the new school building, has had many insinuations made and spoken by enemies with a view to injuring him, both while here and while away, was unjustly treated yesterday by the school board. What could Captain Davis have said that the board of education could not or would not hear? Did conscience make cowards of them all that they should refuse, with the exception of Mr. Ashbrook, to give him an audience? If not, what reason had they for not wanting to hear what he had to say? Captain Davis is a man of honor, and one whose veracity is unquestioned. The action of a body of men representing the people of Paducah, in refusing to have read a communication from Captain Davis, and in receiving and filing one, the contents of which they were not supposed to be aware, in this stifling free speech and refusing to accord a man an opportunity to vindicate himself before those who had wronged him, was an act of injustice that was unworthy of men who ought to set a good example of right and justice whether they do or not. Captain Davis will yet thwart his enemies.

"Now my friends I want to talk to you about the trusts," said Mr. Goebel at a Grahamsville, Ky., just after he had concluded a long tirade against the L. & N. railroad. "I want to hear that," said a listener. The nominee instantly forgot his promise, no doubt for he talked on and on. The authority for this criticism—a roast for a fact—is from the Louisville Courier-Journal's special report. Verbatim it is as follows: "He devoted much time to the L. & N. railroad and his arguments were frequently applauded. 'Now my friends, I want to talk to you about the trusts,' continued he. 'I want to hear that,' remarked one of the audience.' And thus he talked."

Mr. Thomas Pettit, the ex-Democrat, ex-Populist and just now a political curio, in his speech yesterday at Benton admitted about all the charges against the Louisville ticket, but said the "job" was his notion, and therefore he was for nominees. Mr. Pettit also said that the platform was the best Populist document the people had yet had a chance to endorse, and for this reason particularly he was heart and soul for its success. The speech was characteristic for its admissions as to all the claims of the opposition against the Louisville steel and it is surprising Mr. Pettit could and did endorse it as he did. But then Pettit has been a politician all his life, and with this said all is explained.

Campbell carried Ohio ten years ago, but no Democrat has won that state since. The drop from Campbell to McLean shows the extent of the deterioration of the Buckeye Democracy in the past decade.

MISTAKEN MR. GOEBEL

In his speech here Nominee Goebel, who wants to be governor of Kentucky at any cost to the state, people and his own principles, if he has any, said: "Since I have been a candidate for governor I have always endeavored to point out to the Democracy of the state what really is the issue in this fight. I must now repeat that the bottom question in this contest is whether the laws of Kentucky shall be construed, whether the laws of Kentucky shall be executed, by the people of the state or by the corporation known as the L. & N. railroad."

Mr. Goebel made use of these same words in his speech at Elizabethtown and the Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune made them the text for a racy article. Said the Cincinnati-Tribune:

"If that were true, and it isn't, it would be a sad commentary upon the quality of service William Goebel—with his fellow Democratic legislators—has rendered the state in his twelve years as a state senator and six years as leader upon the majority side of that body. If there is not upon the statute books of Kentucky sufficient law to regulate the Louisville and Nashville Railroad company and all other corporations in their dealings with the public, it is the fault of William Goebel and his fellow Democratic lawmakers."

"But Mr. Goebel is merely begging the question and dodging the real issue of this campaign in Kentucky. From the inception of his candidacy he has played to the galleries, from a platform built upon prejudice, in a farce imitival with facts. If the Louisville and Nashville railroad is a factor in the Kentucky contest, it is because Mr. Goebel has made it so by unwarranted attacks and demagogic denunciations. The L. & N. railroad is a business corporation, entitled to the same rights and privileges, subject to the same regulations and restrictions, under the constitution of the state, as any other business enterprise or any individual investor of capital. Neither more nor less. No man knows this better than Mr. Goebel, a legislator of experience and a lawyer of ability. When he assumes more he does it for political effect, and feels dishonestly with the people and corporate interest, with capital and with labor. His premise is an assumption without foundation, his conclusions mere declarations, his whole argument illogical and forced."

"In very truth, Mr. Goebel finds himself confronted by desperate conditions. The discredited candidate of a debauched convention, standing upon a platform the converse of his whole political career, he must needs create for himself an issue of avoidance. Hence his arrogant assumption of exclusive right of endorsement."

Some Women Doubt

Many women think the bearing of children is a necessary period of great pain and distress. They doubt whether any medicine can relieve their sufferings. Well may they hesitate about taking those injurious internal mixtures so widely sold. But they may place implicit faith in the which is a softening, relaxing and soothing liniment for external use. Doubting women should get a bottle at the drug store for $1, and test it. There is no possibility of its doing harm, and there is every likelihood of its saving them many hours of pain. THE BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO. ATLANTA, GA.

ment domain in all the virtues in the calendar of statecraft. He frightens his hearers with stories of dangers that threaten them from this dragon of corporate greed and oppression, and cries to them in their panic of alarm: 'Behold your deliverer. Here am I. Without me ye are lost. I alone can save you.' Yet William Goebel has been in the state senate a round dozen years, and by his own reasoning, the dragon still flourishes.

"For some generations before Senator Goebel Kentucky managed to get on fairly well. Her history contains nothing to indicate that her sons have so far degenerated in statecraft that there are not administrators than William Goebel fitted to administer to her affairs. The young man is overwhelmed by the imaginary importance of his single individuality. Ambition hath not only eaten up his conscience, arrogance has consumed his modesty as well. He either estimates himself overmuch, or his fellow Kentuckians overlittle if he imagines that all that remains of statecraft in the Grand Old Commonwealth is represented in his puny personality. Mr. Goebel insults the intelligence of his constituency no less than the integrity of his opponents, and the honored and honorable memory of his predecessors in Bourbon politics."

No, Mr. Goebel, you are mistaken. The bottom question in the contest between the parties in Kentucky involves no question of Louisville and Nashville railroad control of executive, legislative or judicial administration of affairs in that state. Kentucky is in no danger of railroad domination with either yourself or General Taylor as its chief executive, with either Democratic or Republican control of the legislative and judicial branches of state government. That pea is entirely beside the question, is specious and absolutely false, and you know it. No one better.

But to the real issues. There are involved in this contest in Kentucky beside the broad principle of Republicanism, set over against the corrupt demagoguery of Democracy, the threatened throttling of liberty of opinion and freedom of suffrage in that state. The vital issue before the people in this especial contention is embodied in this proposition: Shall the people control their suffrage, or shall William Goebel, through the malignant machinations of his machine methods, throttle public opinion, and on the ruins of a free ballot build an oligarchy? It is a much graver question than the false premise of Mr. Goebel's arrogant assumption. It is a question involving the very principle of government by the people.

Mr. Goebel's candidacy represents nothing but Mr. Goebel. He wants a ticket discredited in his own party. He and his ticket represent in their credentials riot and rapine. They bear a banner dragged in the dirt of degradation, stained with fraud, rent by force—a fitting emblem of outlawry and debased manhood. The Republican ticket represents decency, order and law; the Republican platform stands for principle, hides behind no prejudice, caters to no demagoguery. Can there be any doubt of the result? In the intelligence and integrity of the free suffragists, the independent sons of an independent state, is sealed the doom of Goebelism and a degraded Democracy.

DEMOCRAT DEMAGOGUES

Louisville Post: "The Goebels are very indignant because so many of the best men in Kentucky accept employment from corporations, and they are constantly referring to the fact that so many of Mr. Goebel's opponents are corporation attorneys."

"As long as corporations are permitted to exist they will doubtless employ the best lawyers they can get, and the only reason we can find for the fact that Mr. Goebel is not perpetually employed by corporations is that his practices at the bar have greatly interfered with his influence. The demand for his services there has not equal the estimate he has put on them."

"Nevertheless, it pains us to confess that Mr. Goebel is a corporation attorney. First of all, he is the attorney of a corporation licensed to commit crimes. It is the Covington 'Agricultural Association,' or some such title as that, but in fact is the Pool-selling association, with valuable and untaxed franchise. Mr. Goebel is its attorney."

"Mr. Goebel was very active in having the Hewitt law repealed, and then accepted employment from the corporations who looked to that law for protection. That is, as a lawyer, he accepted employment to upset work he had done as a statesman."

"Moreover, the Western Union Telegraph company is a corporation of the 'octopus' class, eagerly seeking to establish a monopoly. Mr. Goebel is the attorney of the Western Union Telegraph company."

"Mr. Ollie Young is Mr. Goebel's secretary of war, who is supposed to be organizing a Goebel victory over the corporations. Yet the Evening Post is informed that Mr. Ollie Young is a hiring of the Chesapeake and Ohio road, and serves them with as much faithfulness as he serves the king."

"Mr. Blackburn has never yet scorned a fee from a corporation for 'legal services' in the lobby or at the bar. Only last year the Owensboro Messenger had a bitter attack on Mr. Blackburn for his efforts to serve the Bell Telephone company and shut out competition."

THE FARCE AT RENNES.

St. Louis Chronicle: The civilized world will soon cease waiting for the verdict in one of the most celebrated trials in French history, and while the world at large has long made up its mind that sufficient evidence has not been produced to convict Dreyfus of treason or any other offense, there is a danger that the judges of the court-martial, being subservient to the bunch of high military conspirators, have already decided, evidence or no evidence, to save the bemuddled and mud-bedraggled "honor" of the French army by confirming the verdict of the first court-martial. Gen. Mercier and his gang of conspirators have had nearly five years in which to prepare a new case, but the prosecution had soon trotted out its star witnesses, whose so-called testimony would not be admitted in any court of justice in the United States.

Coups d'etat, coups de theatre and various other sensational coups have been threatened from time to time, but they proved to be only opinions and long-winded arguments, and at best hearsay evidence, if the stuff has been rattled off against the prisoner can be called evidence.

The much-talked-of secret dossier was found to contain a collection of vile forgeries, and, according to the best evidence obtainable, if the German government bought the army secrets enumerated in the dossier, it bought a good-sized gold brick, and if there is anything in expert testimony it was clearly proven that Esterhazy is the author of that document.

Berillon alone, the farce comedy witness, insisted that Dreyfus had written it, and Berillon proved to be the laughing stock of even the prejudiced judges, for he tried to prove Dreyfus' guilt on the same principle that Ignatius Donnelly is trying to prove that Bacon is the real author of Shakespeare's works.

Such evidence as Dreyfus having to a woman on a street and a soldier "sneaking" around Emperor William's bedroom, was freely admitted against the prisoner, and, Friday last, a witness declared Dreyfus guilty because in 1886 he saw him on horseback in Alsace. The same witness was however, forced to admit that in 1893 and 1898 he was convicted of embezzlement.

A star witness was a tripe dealer named Villon, who swore that in 1891, in Berlin, he overheard a conversation of German officers who declared they were getting a plan of mobilization from Dreyfus. Asked why he didn't mention that fact during the trial, the witness declared that, knowing Dreyfus to be guilty, he foresaw he would be convicted anyhow.

Then followed a season of prolonged excitement, intense emotion and suppressed sensation, and the curtain dropped for the day.

DEMOCRAT DEMAGOGUES

Louisville Post: "The Goebellites are very indignant because so many of the best men in Kentucky accept employment from corporations, and they are constantly referring to the fact that so many of Mr. Goebel's opponents are corporation attorneys. 'As long as corporations are permitted to exist they will doubtless employ the best lawyers they can get, and the only reason we can find for the fact that Mr. Goebel is not perpetually employed by corporations is that his practices at the bar have greatly interfered with his influence. The demand for his services therefore does not equal the estimate he has put on them.

"Nevertheless, it pains us to confess that Mr. Goebel is a corporation attorney. First of all, he is the attorney of a corporation licensed to commit crimes. It is the Covington Agricultural Association, or some such title as that, but in fact is the Pool-selling association, with valuable and untaxed franchise. Mr. Goebel is its attorney.

"Mr. Goebel was very active in having the Hewitt law repealed, and then accepted employment from the corporations who looked to that law for protection. That is, as a lawyer, he accepted employment to upset work he had done as a statesman.

"Moreover, the Western Union Telegraph company is a corporation of the 'octopus' class, eagerly seeking to establish a monopoly. Mr. Goebel is the attorney of the Western Union Telegraph company.

"Mr. Ollie Young is Mr. Goebel's secretary of war, who is supposed to be organizing a Goebel victory over the corporations. Yet the Evening Post is informed that Mr. Ollie Young is a hireling of the Chesapeake and Ohio road, and serves them with as much faithfulness as he serves the king.

THE FARCE AT RENNES.

St. Louis Chronicle: The civilized world will soon cease waiting for the verdict in one of the most celebrated trials in French history, and while the world at large has long made up a mind that sufficient evidence has not been produced to convict Dreyfus of treason or of any other offense, there is a danger that the judges of the court-martial, being subservient to the bunch of high military conspirators, have already decided, evidence or no evidence, to save the bemuddled and mud-begoggled "honors" of the French army by confirming the verdict of the first court-martial.

Gen. Mercier and his gang of conspirators have had nearly five years in which to prepare a new case, but he prosecution had soon trotted out its star witnesses, whose so-called testimony would not be admitted in any court of justice in the United States.

Coups d'etat, coups de theatre and various other sensational coups have been three times from time to time, but they proved to be only opinions and long-winded arguments, and at best hearsay evidence, if the stuff that was rattled off against the prisoner can be called evidence.

The much-talked-of secret dossier was found to contain a collection of vile forgeries, and, according to the best evidence obtainable, if the German government bought the army secrets enumerated in the dossier, it bought a good-sized gold brick, and if there is anything in expert testimony it was clearly proven that Esterhazy is the author of that document.

Berthoin alone, the farce comedy witness, insisted that Dreyfus had written it, and Berthoin proved to be the laughing stock of even the promised judges, for he tried to prove Dreyfus' guilt on the same principle that Ignatius Donnelly is trying to prove that Bacon is the real author of Shakespeare's works.

Such evidence as Dreyfus having to a woman on a street and a soldier "snooping" around Emperor William's bedroom, was freely admitted against the prisoner, and, Friday last, a witness declared Dreyfus guilty because in 1885 he saw him on horseback in Alsace. The same witness was however, forced to admit that in 1893 and 1898 he was convicted of embezzlement.

A star witness was a tripe dealer named Villon, who swore that in 1891, in Berlin, he overheard a conversation of German officers who declared they were getting a plan of mobilization from Dreyfus. Asked why he didn't mention that fact during the first trial, the witness declared that, knowing Dreyfus to be guilty, he forewent he would be convicted anyhow.

Then followed a season of prolonged excitement, intense commotion and suppressed sensation, and the curtain dropped for the day.

AS TRUE AS GOSPEL.

Real religion comes from the human heart and brain. Only times shall show us whether each traveler is bound.

The fool fishes for flattery; the wise man works for wages.

When we despair, not only our compass, but our ship, is gone.

Difficulties of thought, acceptance of what is without full comprehension, belong to every system of thinking.

When interest is at variance with conscience, and pretense that seems to reconcile them satisfies the hollow-hearted.

Kind looks, kind words, kind acts, and warm handshakes—these are the secondary means of grace when men are in trouble, and are fighting their unseen battles.

Observations ...at Random.

This story is told on Rev. Cap Owen, the well known preacher, and serves to illustrate that people are often mistaken in their estimate of the character of strangers.
One day Rev. Owen was on his way to the country to preach. His horse jogged easily along the dusty road, swaying up a dove here and there, almost stopping occasionally to pick his way through a gully, or increasing his pace as he went down the hill.
The reverent gentleman, who sat with bowed head thinking over what he was to say to the sinners that day, was shortly aroused by a man he was about to pass, skirting the dusty road.
"What are the chances for a ride?"
he asked.
"Get in and welcome, sir, get right in," replied the preacher, as he drew reins. "Guess you find walking pretty disagreeable on a hot dusty day like this."

They rode on in silence. The motor was broken occasionally by some commonplace observation from one or the other, and finally the preacher began to wonder if his unknown companion's soul was saved.
He thought on for some little time and finally concluded that he would find out at any rate. It was his Christian duty.
As they reached a thick clump of trees, with a picturesque blake over a small stream, he summoned up all the courage at his command and abruptly said, "My friend, are you prepared to meet your maker?"

With a frightened look the stranger scrambled out and replied as he struck terra firma and made off. "Not by a d—d sight sir!" And he came near falling down the steep embankment in his haste to get away.
The preacher in amazement saw him vanish down the road and then thoughtfully drove on. When he smiled frequently after that it was not at the thought of the things he would say to the sinners that day.

The summer theater and soda water season have about gone. They are waning now, and in almost no time, it will seem, the sultry heat will have vanished and frost will come.
The soda water season according to a dealer begins to fail and become lighter and lighter, about the 15th of this month, when nights are cool, no matter how hot the days are. By October the fountains are almost ready to be closed.
The company at La Belle park will close in a short time, and then amusement lovers will change to the opera house, and as a gentleman remarked yesterday, summer will come around again almost before you know it.

Some of the gutters on Broadway are about the worst things that ever happened. They can be seen for half a block, and people who pass that way all comment most unfavorably on their condition, and ask whose business it is to keep them clean.

It is a matter of speculation whether or not the porters will sweep the dirt out across the sidewalks into pedestrians' faces next winter, when the weather is cold. It may be pretty hard on the porters but it is wiser that they manage to do it somehow for they have a mission to perform, that is to make life as miserable as possible for others.

HORRORS OF THE KLONDIKE

Green-Son Stories told by an Arrival From Copper River.

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 8.—Otto Thews, of Primrose, Ia., who has arrived here from Copper River, Alaska, brings news confirming the reported deaths of seven members of the Scientific Prospecting company, of New York. The dead are Earlhardt, Miller, Altman, Schutz, Peter Siegel, Butler and Baumgartner.
George Hooker, another member of the party, got out alive, but is badly crippled with scurvy, which carried away a majority of his companions. Baumgartner went out hunting and was never seen again.
The most affecting case was that of Butler, who was driven insane by his sufferings. His weak compansions had to strap him down, but they could not restrain him. One morning Thews, whose camp was near, found Butler sitting out in the snow, with his clothes and hat off. The thermometer was 45 degrees below zero. Butler was taken inside, but he died in a few hours.
The party was camped at Twelve Mile, just beyond Valdez glacier.
Thews also brings a gruesome story in connection with the finding of the remains of a jeweler named Smith, who perished last November on Valdez glacier. Every exposed portion of the body had been eaten away by ravens. The remains were identified as those of Smith by the clothing and effects found with them. A purse containing $250 was among his effects. A prospector named Austed, a partner of Smith, said a money belt which contained a sum of money was missing.
Thews said he had a close call crossing the glacier. He fell into a crevasse 1000 feet from the top, but the pack on his back caught him and held him until his companions could come to his rescue.

SHE CARRIED THE OBELISK.

Once Famous Vessel Now Used as a Coal Barge.
Baltimore American: A vessel which was once a famous steamer, but is now a commonplace sea-going coal barge, is in port loading for a New England port. The Dessous was built for the Kheive of Egypt

In 1864 and named the Denton. At that time she was considered one of the fastest and most beautifully appointed vessels afloat, and the Kheive enjoyed her immensely for a while. But he got tired of her, and in 1879 William H. Van'erbit bought her to transport the obelisk from Egypt to Central Park, New York. Lieutenant Commander Gor-ringe took command of her, having been detailed for the purpose by the United States government.
The obelisk, which weighs 196 tons, was far from the shore line and buried, besides, deep in sand.
It was altogether too heavy for ordinary machinery to be used, and it was carried down an immense platform with cannon balls under the rollers. Then it was passed in a crib fixed on a ponton of the pontoon and ship were lifted in a graving drydock, head on to each other, and when this had been accomplished a hole twenty feet long and twelve feet high was cut in the starboard bow of the boat, below the water line. Through this the great stone was rolled into the hold of the ship on a grove having an improved ball-bearing attachment, also made of cannon balls. Inside the obelisk was braced along the keel-son, and stout shoring fixed about it to make it immovable. After everything was made shipshape and the ribs and plates were fixed at the bow of the steamer, she finaly set sail for New York on June 12, 1880.

ROYALIST PLOT.
Papers Seized Showing the Seriousness of the Affair PARIS, Sept. 8.—The idea of flooding the house in the Rue de Chabrol, where Jules Guerin and his followers are holding out against the police, has been abandoned. After a preparation had been completed it was found that the foundation of the building were insecure and the pressure of the water would cause its collapse.
New evidence has been discovered in the recently unearthed plot against the republic, which makes the charges against Paul Deroude and his colleagues much more serious.
Whoever arrests are looked for at the conclusion of the Dreyfus trial.
The plot was well financed and well planned. New documents seized include a number of the Duke of Orleans autograph letters to Deroude, which leave no doubt of the guilt of many high personages.
Most of the generals implicated in the Dreyfus affair were in the plot, as well as a number of clerics.
The Petite Republique, the organ of M. Jaures and the government Socialists, publishes today parts of a part of the dossier of the coming document which it guarantees to be true before the senate high court.
It implicates the Duke of Orleans in exciting a general strike of workmen and other labor troubles of the past and present year, intended to oblige the government to bring out troops.
The document is represented as a letter from the Duke, authorizing his representative, Buffet, to use 300, 000 francs for this purpose. With this are connected the attempts to engage workmen, under Deroude's leadership and Rochefort's subscription for strikers.
The letter adds: "We have understandings, conscious and unconscious, in workingmen's unions."

LITERARY CHAT.

IN THE CITY.
Sudden amid the alms and rain,
I know not how, I know not why,
A rose unfolds within my breast,
And all the world is at my feet.
A trumpet sounds, green surges arise,
And daffodils dance in the sun.
Through tears fair pictures flash and flash
Upon the city's background dim.
Women are true and men are good,
Concord sleeps at the heart of strife,
How sweet is human brotherhood,
And all the common daily life!
—I. Zangwill, in Lippincott's.

The national Magazine is always certain to please the reader. Its variety of choice matter, by first-class writers assures this. For September it offers some choice reading.
"Hercules and the Island Republic," is of interest to everyone. "The Naval Academy—New and Old," is good as well. Many bright stories and pretty poems fill its pages each month. A special offer has been made of twenty-five cents for the magazine until January 1, 1900.

The Saturday Evening Post of September 9, will publish an article entitled, "New York Under Tan many Rule," by Frank Moss, counsel for the Mazet investigating committee.
Those desiring light upon this interesting theme have here a golden opportunity.
We speak frankly when we say that in our opinion "The Duchess of Nona" in the September Lippincott's is a story of only passing interest. We do not altogether like the tone of its expression at times; believe it uncalled for and harsh. Aside from this it can claim no especial merit.
We have a rich store in our own country's history for good stories. Why is it that so many of our modern writers seek remote spots about which to write? "The Duchess of Nona" treats of a country far distant, and of a period in that country's history so obscure that many people are ignorant of the conditions and surroundings.

"A Stranger in England," is the title of a well-written article, with quaint illustrations, by Elizabeth Ward Neville, in the December issue for the current month. One notes a marked improvement in this journal.
Its pages this month are bright with all that goes to make a good and up-to-date magazine.

Mark Twain, in an article in Harper's Magazine, speaks in rather glowing terms of the Jew and his good points. And he speaks truly, too. No one, not even his greatest enemy will say that the Jew is aggressive, intemperate, or that he is a loafer. Further than this who of us have ever seen a Jew beggar?
They could teach other people some lessons in charity; they do not let their unfortunate starve to death.
Let those of his enemies contempt at these and many other traits of his character.

The fate and tragic ending of President Garfield's life, in some respects, at least, reminds one forcibly of our other martyr-president. In the second paper on "Garfield, the Man of the People," in the Saturday Evening Post of September 20, John J. Ingalls depicts a pathetic picture.
Major J. B. Pond writes entertainingly of famous women he has known and their peculiarities. One finds much good reading in this issue.

No one should have cause to complain of the September issue of the Ladies' Home Journal. It seems to have scored a point more in its advance. "The Wayside Inn of Sud-bury Town," which would have an interest for everyone, so entertainingly has Longfellow told its tale. "The East Side Girl in New York," "The Confessions of a Worrier," "Dramatic Performances by Amateurs," are some of the many interesting themes that go toward filling its pages.

The fact that "David Harum" still outsells all other publications of its class, speaks well for its merits.
This fact does not necessarily imply that it is a bad, as is the case with some of our popular novels. This is a novel above that particular class, and deserves its popularity.
The publication of Gen. Booth's "Through Darkest England," several months ago, gave currency to the striking phrase, "the submerged tenth," says the Youth's Companion of September 7. "It will not do to construe the phrase too strictly, but certainly it expresses a gruesome and ominous fact. At the bottom of our social structure there is a stratum "of the bad." This term is used here not in the sense of moral reprobation, but in the sense in which it is used, for example, of castings that come from the molds defective. In this sense no one will question the statement that a certain stratum of humanity is bad. It is composed of the imbecile, the incompetent, the vicious and criminal. It is found in all our great cities, but it is found also in the smaller towns, and even in the country. It is a sort of rubbish heap; and it is the perpetual accompaniment and foil of our fair civilization." Such a problem; how to reduce this class of humanity, is one of the deepest questions of the hour.

A PRIEST WEDS.

QUINCY, Ill., Sept. 8.—The marriage of the Rev. Father Charles Brady, of Liberty, and Adie Gwinn, of this city, which took place at Clayton, Mo., on Tuesday evening,

August 29, is just announced here, and the sensational event was a great surprise to the numerous acquaintances of the contracting parties.
A short time ago Brady came to this city, presumably to attend a retreat for the priests at St. Francis Boulevard college, and he was suddenly taken sick at a public hotel.
He was asked if he would accept the services of a nurse from St. Mary's Catholic hospital and he said he preferred a nurse from the Hessian-Protestant hospital. Miss Gwinn had been a nurse in this hospital for several years, and she was sent to wait on him. He had never seen her before, and it proved to be a case of love at first sight.
She was engaged to accompany him to St. Louis, apparently as a nurse, but, as the sequel shows, to become his wife. The bride is a life-long member of the Episcopal church, and has won a good reputation for her charitable work.
It is understood that Father Brady has renounced his allegiance to the Catholic church and that he will take up some mercantile pursuit for his living. The couple are living in St. Louis.

ON THE STAGE.
Jerome K. Jerome is writing Charles Frohman a play for next season.
Julia Marlowe is going to spend her summer vacation in Switzerland.
Annie Russell, whose London season was canceled because of her illness, is well enough to return to America.
Mrs. Potter and Kyrie Bellew will produce "The Queen's Necklace" in London as soon as they can secure a theater.
Maude Adams has closed her season.
It is claimed the receipts for her six weeks in "Romeo and Juliet" were $137,000. The cost of the production was over $30,000.
Before leaving for this country William Gillette, who has been dramatizing Conan Doyle's "Sherlock Holmes," gave a London dinner for Mark Twain, in whose back yard he used to play as a boy.

FIXING FOR FALL

Changing the complexion of the store bringing fresh, new lots of mer- chandise to the front as fast as they arrive; shaping a selling policy for the new season that will make this the most satisfactory season in the store's history. Not all the new things can we show you at once, but enough to assure you that we are wide awake to your autumn needs.

There's a new string to the fiddle and it's going to emit some very catchy price music from now on.

Nobby Dress Goods

The beginning of the dress goods season brings many of our public to investigate the new styles. There's much early buying, too; hence we always make it a point to be among the first in the field.

This week we are showing new Goff suitings for 1.50 to 2.00 a yard, which you will find to be under cur-rent prices.

Bright new all-wool scratch plaids for 50c and 65c a yard, that you may pay a dollar for.

New chevrons, mercerized novelties and granite cloths, Rayette and Ta-vere cords, and the staple hennies and serges for all-the-year around wear.

Our Black Crepons

More popular than ever, better prepared than ever to meet the de-mand for these rich, glossy, bulged materials. We've been for months selecting the choice patterns from different importers' stocks, and now they are arriving. We want your cre-pon trade, provided we merit the por-tionage; and while we have no doubt of this, we will respect your opinion if your strong attachment for some other firm leads you to think differ-ently. We understand these things, and do not condemn you, but would like to have you for a customer, and assure you it is our fixed policy never to charge a customer all we could get for goods, but, on the other hand, to sell them low as on advertising bid for future trade. We hardly think you will find crepons that will equal ours at 1.00, 1.25, 1.50, 1.75 and 2.00.

For School Dresses

This week we offer an excellent assortment of new plaids and neat mixtures for school gowns. These are all at very modest cost, and just suited for the fall school wear.

Lot 1 is an assortment of checks in pretty colorings that are not all wool, but look very much like it, and will outwear and bear more hard knocks than the more expensive sorts. Per yard, 12 1/2c.

Lot 2 is a job of all-wool checks and mixtures carried from last win-ter, that we sold at 25 to 40c a yard. We could not buy them for less than 20 to 30c now, but as they are last year's goods we have decided to make school dress offerings of the lot at 15c per yard.

Lot 3 is an assortment of pretty new camel's hair checks and small plaids, 36 inches wide and in such popular favor that the mills are away behind in filling orders. Price per yard, 25c.

Remnant

of Amoskegon apron gingham, worth 7c, for 5c per yard.

Remnants Canton Flannels

Two 100 lots of 10-yard lengths of Lawrence canton flannels, the best brand on the market, big values.

First lot, each 10-yard piece for 50c.

Second lot, each 10-yard piece for 75c.

Clothing Department

It costs us less to buy and sell clothing, furnishing goods and shoes than any house in the city.

When you need to buy next let us demonstrate to your entire satisfac-tion that we can and will save you 10 to 25 per cent.

We have just opened a line of boys' school pants made from mil-lion-dollar goods to sell at 25c, 35c and 50c—some of them worth fully double.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

A bad man can be just as foolish over a good woman as a good woman over a bad man.

The men who are devoted to the right sort of married women the better for mankind.

The biggest bully is as afraid of a woman as any other man, only he shouts so loud nobody knows it.

No matter how good a woman thinks a man is she couldn't believe it if she didn't think the devil was in him somewhere.

The reason we so seldom take off the masks we habitually wear is that when we do and get a look at our real selves in the glass it startles us most as much as our friends.—New York Press.

Weight of Lion.

Ask any acquaintance how much a lion weighs, and see what he will say. Those who know the look of the king of beasts best, and how small his litha body really is, will probably come fur-ther from the truth. About 300 pounds to 350 pounds is the usual esti-mate. But this is below the mark. A full grown lion will tip the scale at no less than 500 pounds. Five hundred and forty pounds is the record for an African lion. His bone is solid and heavy as ivory. The tiger runs the lion very close. A Bengal tiger, killed two years ago by a British officer, scaled 520 pounds. A tiger of this size has, however, considerably more muscular strength than the biggest lion.

A Narrow shave for Johnny.

Mrs. Brown—"I'm so glad the doc-tor says you won't lose your eyesight, but you shouldn't have said I was the cause of the explosion." Little John-ny—"But you were, ma. If you hadn't come sneaking round the corner to see I was smoking I shouldn't have shoved the lighted cigarette end into my pocket with the Chinese crackers."—Spare Moments.

A NEW FUEL.

A Substitute for Coal Produced at Baku.

A contributor to the Pall Mall Maga-zine describes a new fuel produced in Russia. He says: "In appearance astakli, a product of the oil wells of Baku, is a dark, viscous fluid not more inflammable than vegetable oil, and less so than coal. As a steam-pro-ducer it has no rival, and the demand for this purpose is constantly on the increase. Nothing else is burned on railways in Central Asia, the Caucasus and Southern Russia, on the Black sea, Caspian and river steamers, and in the innumerable industrial works which are springing into existence on the Azov littoral. In the railways which employ this substitute for coal, loco-motive tenders are not piled high with black diamonds, but carry a sheet-iron tank, which is filled by pump-ing or the force of gravity. Numerous are the systems of feeding furnaces with astakli; and, indeed, every en-gineer has his own pet apparatus. The principle of all is that of the Root's blower. A current of steam, or pre-ferrably air, carrying with it the fuel in minute subdivision, is forced at high pressure through a nozzle, called a "pulverizer," into the tubular interior of the boiler. To be heated. The result is an intensely white, roaring flame, and in pulverizers of the latest type the value of astakli as compared with coal on a steam-raiser is as 2 1/2 to 1. The former sells at Baku at $2.50 per ton, and when the pipeline connect-ing that place with Batoum is com-plete, astakli will be delivered at the steamer's side at something like $1. At the latter price coal will clearly be unable to compete with its youthful rival. Nor do the advantages of astakli end with its cheapness. Engines burn-ing it require no army of stokers, for all that is necessary in the largest is a man to regulate the supply by taps. There is no smoke, litter or dust. Many a passenger by ocean steamer will bless the day when astakli shall supplant coal, and the stokers who are roasted alive in tropical waters will have greater reason to be thankful for the revolution.

There was a good crowd at Morton's opera house last night to see Rusco, Pringle and Holland's colored min-strels. The colored people complet-ly filled the gallery. The perfor-mance was equal to the standard so long maintained by this company. The singing was good, the specialties new and well arranged, and every feature was worth seeing. Billy Kersands the renowned was as pop-ular as ever, but there is a man in the company destined to soon out-shine him. This is John Rucker, the original Alabama Blossom, who is a better comedian and has a bigger mouth than Kersands. He is an excellent monologist.
